

An Offer for Students' Excursions to the Festival

9. – 13. May – 2018 in Koblenz, Germany

The festival presents the most recent productions of ethnographic films and acts as a platform for a dialogue between anthropology and documentary filmmaking.

More informations about the festival: <http://www.gieff.de/>

The festival encourages young filmmakers to submit their films, as the festival specially supports STUDENT FILMS and awards the best with the STUDENT FILM AWARD 2014.

Central topics of the festival are:

- Belonging and Exclusion
- Coping with Crises
- Performing and Ritualization
- Filmmic Possibilities of World Disclosure

In addition, David MacDougall, one of the most prominent filmmakers in the field of visual anthropology, will present a program tentatively entitled "filmmaker's choice", where he intends to make a kind of 'guided tour' by showing excerpts from films that have been important to him, or have influenced his filmmaking.

GIEFF acts as an international meeting place for students of anthropology and other social sciences who deal with film as a method for research and documentation, or as a means of communication or presentation.

We specially support meetings of student groups from different universities at the festival, both with filmmakers and experts, but also among the student groups themselves.

GIEFF therefore presents this SPECIAL OFFER for STUDENT GROUPS of 5 and more students from one university:

- 20% discount on festival fee also for late registering participants
- additional 10 % excursion discount for all
- simplified group registration by group leader/coordinator
- room made available for group meetings during the festival
- additional information material about filmmakers present at festival.

In past years, teachers have used this offer to organise, in the summer semester, a seminar about recent trends in visual anthropology and obtain excursion funding from their universities.

The GIEFF organisers offer advice for interested teaching staff: info@gieff.de